Jack and I were talking about his library book "The night before Christmas" that he had chosen. One topic leads to the next and soon we he was asking why reindeer have antlers. I explained that sometimes they fight and we talked about what they fight about. I said they fight about who is boss & he said they fight about a girl too. I asked him if he would fight with someone about a girl and he said no. I asked if he would if it were Ele'or (who loved him and left him half-a-lifetime ago but still retains his loyalty).

Jack, chivalrously said 'no' - I would just say that she is mine and they should leave her alone.
