Jack's friend Rielyn moved up to the big kids side at daycare. I talked about this with Jack and he agreed that he was sad. He agreed it would be nice if I called Rielyn's mum and we met Rielyn at the playground which we finally did last weekend. The boys were thrilled to see each other and ran around and such things. Richard was in the car but after a while he wanted Rielyn to "meet my Daddy". Rielyn wasn't so keen "I got my own Daddy". Jack, however, was insistent and took Rielyn by the hand to be introduced.
