Jack received a book called Peter and the Pirate for Xmas. The story is about a pirate who goes into a pet shop to buy a parrot but instead is sold a pig and a variety of other substitutes for his pirate ensemble. Instead of a cutlass the owner sells him a pooper scooper. When reading this to Jack in bed he has been know to whip a similar item out from who knows where and declare gleefully "I've got a pooper scooper". This item from his beach set has taken on a whole new level of glamour. I think the idea that a pirate with a pooper scooper is ridiculous is lost on him.
